

ARMY MOVEMENT TO SUPPORT THE NAVY. FUNSTON TO COMMAND INFANTRY AT VERA CRUZ

Editorial Comments.

The Monroe doctrine was in effect in 1848.

It is about 200 miles from Vera Cruz to the capital.

Gen. Maas will not come back. He will be in luck if he can keep going.

Rear Admiral Chas. J. Badger is the ranking officer of the fleet at Vera Cruz.

The conclusion is irresistible that Huerta did it deliberately. He has played his last card.

Florence Zeigfeld and Billy Burke were married last week. It may be added that Billy is the bride.

The embargo on arms and ammunition shipped into Mexico was re-established Thursday along the American border.

The embargo on arms along the Mexican border, from the gulf of California, a distance of 1500 miles will be enforced by 10,000 soldiers along the border.

Carranza will have to show his hand without delay. Plans are afoot to bottle up all Mexico and strike directly at Mexico City. The railroad from Vera Cruz will be seized.

Frederick Lutz, an editor at Zurich, Switzerland, has been sentenced to prison for a year for making false statements about his circulation and thus "defrauding the public."

Commonwealth's Attorney R. L. Smith, of Clinton, was on Thursday appointed circuit judge by Gov. McCreary to succeed Judge J. R. Bugg, who died. H. J. Moorman, of Mayfield, was appointed commonwealth's attorney.

The supreme court of New York has held that it is the duty of a railroad sleeping car company to guard the property of its patrons while they are asleep, and the Pullman company is held liable for the loss of valise.

Admiral Fletcher in seizing Vera Cruz headed off 15,000,000 rounds of ammunition and 250 machine guns about to be unloaded from a German ship, consigned to Mexico City. The cargo will go back to its shippers.

Cone Johnson, of Texas, has succeeded Joseph W. Folk, of Missouri, as solicitor of the state department at Washington. Mr. Johnson has been a prominent lawyer in Texas. He is fifty-four years of age. His place pays a salary of $5,000 a year.

A New York paper says statistics kept on the average height and weight of American pupils of given ages in many schools and the records of the war department for 50 years, show that men and women are both growing larger. Men in that time have gained 2 inches in height and women 1 inch.

Prof. Nagai, a Japanese, has gone one better and countered our "Yellow Peril" by writing a book on the "White Peril" that threatens to relegate all but the Caucasian races to an inferior plane. He adds that America should not contend for an open door in the Orient while America shuts out Asiatics from her own country.

A new ruling in the Postal Department shutting out of the mails publications advertising any kind of prizes is the most rigid yet made. It is highly probable that fair catalogues or advertisements of fairs in which prizes or premiums are offered, will be barred from the mails, along with "Booklovers' Contests," "Popularity Contests" and "Guessing Contests" of all kinds.

Volunteers Will Be Called Within Forty-Eight Hours

BRAZIL TO ACT FOR U. S.

Washington, April 24.—Fighting in the City of Vera Cruz finally has stopped. Rear Admiral Fletcher by wireless last night reported that desultory firing that had continued since the American forces landed Tuesday had been silenced by a house to house search and disarming all inhabitants.

Ambassador Algara was given his passport and left for Toronto at midnight, under escort.

American Charge O'Shaughnessy arrived at Vera Cruz under escort.

Regulars under Gen. Funston left Galveston for Vera Cruz to reinforce the marines.

Carranza's note held to be hostile was construed by his friends as friendly. Villa hastened to Juarez and personally informed Consul Carothers that he would not be drawn into war with the United States by anybody.

The United States has chosen Brazil to look after her interests in Mexico.

Americans have pushed their outposts three miles inland at Vera Cruz and American refugees are being landed. No attack has been made on Tampico. The American ships are outside the harbor and English and German vessels took 1200 refugees nine miles to them.

A general exodus of Americans is under way and Congress has appropriated $500,000 to help them out of the war zone.

Mexican rebels are about to make a final attack on the federals at Tampico. The report of a joining of forces against the Americans at Tampico is not confirmed.

The national guards of the states will be placed on a war basis immediately. A bill provides for volunteer forces has passed. It provides for 4 year terms and gives the President, instead of Governors, power to appoint officers.

Carranza's Secretary insists that the rebels do not want to fight the United States. He says the rebel position is that the American troops should be withdrawn from Mexican soil, Carranza recognized as de facto president, or at least as a belligerent, and the punishment of the individual Huerta and other individual offenders left to the rebels.

Washington, April 24.—United States troops moved last night to re-inforce the American navy at Vera Cruz; the embargo on arms into Mexico was formally restored, and troops were ordered to the Mexican border primarily to relieve uneasiness among border residents, but also as a precaution against hostile military operations along the international line.

Secretary Garrison announced that a brigade of infantry and some artillery under Brig. Gen. Frederick Funston had been ordered to embark on the four army transports at Galveston for Vera Cruz to support the expeditionary forces of marines and bluejackets there.

"Within forty-eight hours," said a War Department official, "the entire mobile army of 60,000 men will be under orders or in motion." President Wilson will go before Congress within forty-eight hours to ask for a volunteer army. War Department experts said tonight that he may ask for 400,000 men. Kentucky's quota in a call of this size would be 14,080.

GENERAL ADVANCE

Admiral Fletcher Orders Occupancy of Whole City.

Vera Cruz, April 22.—Rear Admiral Fletcher at 8:30 o'clock in the morning ordered a general movement for the occupation of all the town. A bluejacket column advanced and crossed the uncompleted market place and naval college. When they had reached the walls of the college a terrific fire was poured in all directions from the roof and windows. The bluejackets, helpless to return the fire against the stone walls, scattered.

The Prairie, Chester and San Francisco opened with their five and six-inch guns and shattered the walls. The bluejackets formed again and advanced against the fire, which had diminished. By 10 o'clock there was desultory firing from the in-shore side of the tower. Patalions of bluejackets had made their way along the water front to the southern end of the town and cleared several streets, but the sniping from houses continued at intervals.

The scout cruiser Chester pounded buildings on the outskirts with six-inch shells, firing over the heads of the men ashore and showing almost perfect marksmanship.

The general movement from all the positions taken yesterday began in the direction of the main plaza. Marines under Lieutenant-Colonel Wendell C. Neville moved to the southward along parallel streets toward the center, while marines commanded by Lieutenant-Commander Buchanan, of the Florida, and Lieutenant-Commander Arthur B. Keating, of the Arkansas, were ordered from their positions east of the center toward the plaza.

The two forces swung forward with a rush for a distance of three blocks. The machine gun and rifle fire was supplanted by shell fire from the smaller guns of the Prairie and Chester. The ships' guns supported the movement of clearing the roofs to south and east, occasionally dropping a shell a few hundred yards in advance.

Buchanan's men, under direct command of Lieutenant Guy W. O. Castle moved forward to a position one block directly east of the plaza. Other detachments occupied positions to the north and west. Both marines and bluejackets dragged light field pieces, but there was little work for them.

There was no organized resistance but from the beginning of the advance a smart fire came from defenders on house tops, which invariably drew a merciless fire from the advancing parties. The machine guns sounded their "tap, tap" in all quarters, and American sharpshooters posted at street corners and other points of vantage, picked off at will any man who appeared to them acting suspiciously. 12 Americans killed and wounded marked the complete investment of Vera Cruz by the United States forces.

Rear Admiral Frank F. Fletcher has taken up headquarters at the Terminal hotel. The entire city is strongly patrolled and quiet prevailed tonight. Rear Admiral Fletcher is in command of the land operations, while Rear Admiral Badger, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, has brought his flag into the harbor on the Minnesota.

After the general advance began this morning, Mexican sharpshooters on the roofs put up a stubborn resistance. There was one brisk action, guns of the Prairie and Chester assisting in silencing a heavy fire from the naval college. Shells from the Prairie finally shattered its walls.

The number of Mexicans killed yesterday is estimated at 150 with

GOOD WORK-- NO WHIRLWIND

Committees Are Seeing Farmers In Split Long Drag Movement.

MEETING WITH MUCH SUCCESS

Lafayette People Are Especially Active and Elmo Will Organize.

The committees named by the Fiscal Court to canvass the county and appeal to the farmers to use the split log drags, have been active this week in some parts of the county, but the whirlwind campaign did not materialize. A good many of the committees have pretty thoroughly covered their territory, everywhere meeting with highly encouraging success in getting signatures to the agreements. The canvass is a tedious and slow process and it will take some time to complete it.

There will be a big Good Roads meeting at Fruit Hill today and the program will be interesting.

A similar mass meeting is planned for Elmo May 12. In that section the people are enthusiastic and many drags are in use.

A meeting was held by the Lafayette Farmers Club Wednesday and 13 farmers signed up to use the drags.

The Lafayette committee is a live one and is making its canvass in an automobile. R. L. Horn, E. S. Wyatt, A. S. Clardy and Esq. L. C. Rogers are the committeemen.

COLORADO LABOR WAR

Six Killed, Two Missing and Six Reported Sealed in Burning Mine.

Trinidad, Col., April 24.—Six mine employees dead and two missing; three men, two men and a baby reported to be entombed in a burning mine; several mining camps destroyed and others riddled with bullets; less than 200 militiamen and company guards confronting an army of striking coal miners estimated by strike leaders at more than 400—this was the situation when the sun set on the third red day in the Southern Colorado labor war.

Worse Than The War.

The women and children together with some of the men who were entombed in the Empire mine near Trinidad, Col., by an explosion of dynamite, were rescued by striking miners. The deaths in the Trinidad district since fighting began on Monday now number twenty-nine.

many wounded. The Mexican loss today is not known, but is thought to be heavy.

The paymaster of the British cruiser Essex, Albert W. Kimber, was wounded on board his ship by a "sniper" ashore.

The British bluejackets crowded to the bows and cheered the American marines as they proceeded in shore for the landing.

The flags on the Essex and Fortress San Juan de Ulua were half-masted when the dead were carried Adm. Fletcher's Proclamation.

The proclamation issued Thursday by Rear Admiral Fletcher was addressed to the "people of Vera Cruz," and read:

"To the people of Vera Cruz: "The naval forces of the United States that are under my command have occupied temporarily the city of Vera Cruz to supervise the public administration on account of the disturbed conditions which at present prevail in Mexico.

"All employees of the municipality of this port are invited to continue in the discharge of their offices as they have done up to the present.

"The military authorities will not intervene in the civil administration affairs so long as good order and peace in the town are not impaired.

People Will Be Protected.

"All peaceful citizens may confidently continue in their usual occupations, certain that they will be protected in their persons and property and likewise in their proper social relations.

"The commander signing gives assurance that there will be no interference with the civil authorities, except in cases of absolute necessity and guided always by the observance of law and order.

"The taxes due and the use of them will continue being made in the same form as up to the present time and in conformity with law.

"REAR ADMIRAL

F. F. FLETCHER."

The proclamation was printed in Spanish and scattered throughout the town.

Three More Deaths.

Admiral Badger has reported to the navy department that three more men had been killed and twenty-five wounded in the fighting at Vera Cruz Thursday.

Have Field and Machine Guns.

The strength of the American forces on shore at Vera Cruz was estimated this morning at 6,000 men by Commander Charles F. Hughes, chief of staff, to Rear Admiral Badger. They are accompanied by a full equipment of field guns and machine guns.

Although Gen. Gustavo Maas was reported to be assembling inland several thousand Mexican troops for an assault on the city, Commander Hughes said that the American force in Vera Cruz was capable of repelling such an attack without using the ships' big guns, which might cause damage to the city.

Rear Admiral Badger's latest figures this morning gave the total of the American casualties as twelve dead and forty five wounded. Several of the latter are probably fatally hurt.

Cadets Ready To Go.

The United States military academy is all excitement over the Mexican situation. Officers and cadets are anxiously awaiting news from Washington. Many officers request to be relieved from duty there to be sent to the front in event of hostilities. Cadets are looking for an early graduation and promotion if there is war.

Army of Nurses.

The American Red Cross has 4,500 nurses ready for service in Mexico according to a statement by Miss Mabel T. Boardman. Miss Boardman said one of the first moves in case of war would be the establishment of reserve hospitals for sick and wounded on the gulf, Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

SENSIBLE DAY FOR WEDDING

Good Reasons Why Monday Is Becoming Increasingly Popular Among All Classes of Society."Why is Monday chosen so often now for weddings?" The question arose at a women's club, where a party of friends were discussing timely events over tea."And why isn't Friday?" chimed in another voice, which some one silenced by observing: "Because even the 'newest' women have their superstitions and, after all, marriage is rather a too momentous event to begin with rank defiance of the fates."But about Monday. Monday is chosen by the quiet wedding faction, which is an increasing one, on account of the peaceful day that precedes it, the peaceful family day, which the bride and bridegroom elect can pass with their parents and brothers and sisters.There is something beautiful and homely in the idea, and a recent bride, although her chosen Monday happened to be the thirteenth of the month, waived the ban of superstition aside and went to the altar on what would a few years ago have been voted an utterly "impossible" day.People with very few holidays choose Saturday because a brief honey-moon can be taken until Monday, but many actors and actresses find even that impossible, and, marrying in the afternoon, appear "on the boards" in the evening.There have been a great number of sensible innovations to chronicle in wedding customs of late, and one of the most sensible is the upsetting of old traditions concerning the honey-moon.

WOULDN'T STAND IT

ise never to speak a harsh word.
She—I see you've sized up my

NEW KNIGHT OF ROMANCE.

The modern photographer bids fair to rank as a knight of romance.
How grave are the risks which he runs in his efforts to secure the strange and terrible aspects of nature is indicated by the news from Nairobi that a member of Mr. Paul Rainey's expedition has been fatally injured by a lion which he was attempting to photograph. Yet the stalking of big game with the camera is not the only field in which the photographer now displays his courage—and sometimes his recklessness. He descends into the crater of Vesuvius during eruptions;
he climbs the precipices of the Matterhorn and poses his comrades upon their exiguous ledges; he forces his way up the icy, vertiginous gullies of Snowdon in midwinter. In an age that is commonly supposed to be one of calculating prudence there are still human beings who have their hearts in their sleeves and reckon life as a thing to be "dashingly used and cheerfully hazarded."

NO CHANGE.

Joe—Noticed any change in the railroad sandwiches they're sending out now?
Jake—No; why?"Well, I see a prize has been won by a Belgian inventor in Italy for an artificial leather made of cotton which is said to be as durable and elastic as the genuine article."

THE WRONG ONE.

"What's the trouble with the boilers?"
"You see, sir, the boss told the engineer to fire the furnace and he made a mistake and fired the stoker."

OPTIMISM.

"I'm afraid I don't understand that speech.""Don't be afraid," said Miss Cayenne. "Rather, congratulate yourself."

COULDN'T BE CALLED HEROIC

But for Presence of Mind During Stampede Spectator's Act Certainly Deserved Recognition.Everyone in the hotel smoking room, with one exception, had been holding forth on his own personal bravery and presence of mind. Everybody, with the same exception, had recounted at least one hair-raising episode in which he figured as the embodiment of cool courage.At last the silent exception was asked if he had never had cause to exert his presence of mind."Only once," he replied, yawning.
"I had dropped into a circus to pass away a couple of hours. It was a bright little show, and the performing elephants were particularly wonderful.""Suddenly there was a shriek from the women. The biggest elephant had escaped from his keeper and was making for the most crowded part of the tent—where I happened to be sitting, by the way. There was a stampede of frightened people. The shrieks of women and children filled the air, strong men fainted and pandemonium reigned supreme."The silent one's listeners gasped.
"But I am proud to say," continued that gentleman, "that I kept my head and, in consequence, escaped unhurt.""What on earth did you do?"
some one asked."I? Oh, I just kept on running behind the elephant!"

HAILS THE JOYOUS SPRING

Frenzied Poet, Temporarily at Liberty, Twangs His Lyre In Welcome to Glad Season.The signs of spring! The signs of spring! It used to be a joyous thing to tootle with mellifluous glee about the blossom and the tree. The early robin looked so neat with chilblains on his little feet. The buds that braved the sudden gale and made the annual fruit crop fail, the germs, a wild, voracious throng, we hailed with warblings from the heart.
But now we make an earlier start.
The signs of spring are on display where shoppers seek the glad array of fluffs and feathers, fads and frills.
Be brave, my lads, and pay the bills.
Before the chickens in the coop begin to cackle and to whoop, before we have quit shoveling snow the signs of spring are on the go. They trip and toddle near and far. They joyride in a motor car whose shape and decorations fine proclaim it latest of its line. The signs that once dispelled our gloom, of late like danger signals loom. Poor father views them with alarm and puts a mortgage on his farm. — "Philander Johnson," in Kansas City Star.

settlers of Cincinnati, died in that city 100 years ago. In early life Mr.
Symmes resided in New Jersey and helped to frame the constitution of that state. He served in the Revoluhimself at the battle of Monmouth.

He was chief justice in New Jersey and his associates founded the settlenization plans placed Mr. Symmes in pecuniary difficulties from which he never recovered. Mr. Symmes married a daughter of Governor William Livingston, and their daughter Anna married William Henry Harrison, who became president of the United States.

ASSOCIATE EVIL AND BEAUTY

Through the Ages, Feminine Loveliness Has Been Regarded as an Enemy of the Soul.

It is curious how, from time immemorial, man seems to have associated the idea of evil with beauty, and shrunk from it with a sort of ghostly fear, while, at the same time, drawn to it by force of its hypnotic attraction, comments Richard Le Gallienne in the Smart Set. Strangely enough, beauty has been regarded as the most dangerous enemy of the soul, and the powers of darkness that are supposed to lie in wait for that frail and fluttering Psyche, so precious and apparently so perishable, are usually represented as taking shapes of beguiling loveliness—Lamia, Lorelei, wood nymphs, and witches with blue flowers for their eyes. Lurking in its most innocent forms, the grim aesthetic has affected to find a haven of conception, and whenever any reformation is afoot, it is always beauty that is made the first victim, whether it takes the form of a statue, a stained glass window or a hair ribbon.

"Homeliness is next to godliness," though not officially stated as an article of the Christian creed, has been one of the most active of all Christian tenets. It has always been easier far for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven than for a gloriously beautiful woman. Presumably such a one might be in danger of corrupting the saints, somewhat unaccustomed to such apparitions.

BALKED AT DIGGING WORMS

English Governess Felt She Had a Right to Draw the Line Somewhere.

Governesses in England seem to be required to do almost everything from sewing on buttons to guiding small charges through the mazes of primary French, but the dry records of the courts revealed a governess recently who objected to doing at least one duty imposed by her employers—digging up earthworms for the decoration of a six-year-old boy, says the New York Tribune correspondent.

This independent governess, Miss Gertrude Macdonell, sued Dr. Segwick of Kingston for $17.50 (which, by the way, was what she received for a month's services).

Miss Macdonell said that Mrs. Segwick believed her boy showed indications of being a naturalist, and it was essential that he should have somebody who could lead him in that direction.

"He always showed a preference for butterflies and beetles, and I could tell him about those, but I don't think it was part of my duty as a nursery governess to dig up worms and put the squirming things on a hook."

The judge thought the plaintiff was right about the earthworms and awarded the sum she asked for.

Must Be Left Untouched.

The "measure of the Lowly" is the supreme undiscovered treasure, that is why Maeterlinck writes of it with a golden pen. Bring the jewel into the market, let the lapidary take it from its mysterious matrix and cut it with his remorseless tools, fit it into a king's crown, a lady's ring or the cover of a silver box and somehow the wonder vanishes. The crowd may stare, but no one goes into raptures any more.—Indian Messenger.

Physical Culture in Old Egypt.

That physical culture was a fact with the fashionable ladies of the courts of the Pharaohs is another phase of Egyptian life revealed by the rock pictures of the "Mother of Civilization." The more we moderns dig into the buried past of the Pharaohs the more moderate grows the estimation of our wonderful progress.

LAND OF MIXED RACES.

Pera, whose English president has been exiled, has within her borders a bewildering variety of races. There are the white people of Spanish descent, the mestizos (half Spanish, half native), and the Indians. The Indians themselves are of two races, those of the mountains and those of the forests. The highlanders are treated as beasts of burden by the other classes. So accustomed are they to being cheated that when an English traveler recently exploring the Andes paid his porters without a grumble or a deduction he overheard them excitedly commenting upon the fact that the "Ingles" had paid all that was agreed upon.

Patrice—Well, all I've got to say is that a man who will notice onions on a girl's breath when he's kissing her hasn't got his mind on his business.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. SCENTING A ROMANCE

By JANE COLLINS.

"Did you have a birthday or anything?" inquired the girl who was pinning remnant price tags on different lengths of ribbon.

"Who—me?" answered the young woman at the lace with the extremely blonde hair. Why?

"Oh, I didn't know," rejoined the girl at the ribbons. "Of course there was Christmas. You might have had it ever since then and I not noticed it. I only asked."

"Whatever are you talking about?" cried the girl at the lace with elaborate carelessness. "Really, Julia M'ree, I don't see how you expect folks to understand you when you don't talk plainer!"

"I never was any hand to crowd in," explained the girl at the ribbons. "If my friends can't tell me things I don't want to know—not me! I never did like to be curious about other people's business and you know it. Only I thought I'd ask. Diamond rings don't grow on bushes for the plucking! You can't blame a person for noticing a headlight like that!"

"Oh!" said the girl at the lace with a faint blush. "I didn't know you had seen it. I couldn't imagine what you meant. Goodness—why make a fuss over a simple thing like that?"

The girl pinning ribbons gave a sort of choked cry. "Simple!" she echoed. "Well, diamonds aren't so terribly simple. You talk as though you used them instead of gravel for your walks around your p'ntial estate, Hattie Doggett! Of course if people no better'n I am choose to put on airs that's their own affair! Only my father is a city official instead of just a clerk like yours. He's a policeman, and he's taught us not to put on dog!"

"Just remember," he says to us often, 'that people will find out fast enough the position I hold without you kids boasting about it and don't act as though you were better'n other folks! Be kind to them!'

"None of our family would go around pretending diamonds was the dirt under our feet, though the land knows we could have diamonds if we wanted 'em! Not that we'd be so foolish as to spend hard earned money for foolishness like that!"

"I think," said the extremely blonde young woman at the lace, "that you are very sensible, Julia M'ree. Land knows when a girl is so homely she hasn't any chance of marrying she is wise to save up for her old age! Not that I'm saying I bought my ring myself!"

"I don't suppose you did!" said her friend. "I never supposed you ever saw so much money at one time in your life! It's awful, being so improvident! Well, if you didn't buy it I suppose some one gave it to you—and I must say that what any girl can see in that sappy, weak-eyed pinhead of a Percy Fox that floorwalks in the next aisle, but one is beyond me! I'm sorry for the girl that ties up to him—a two room flat for her for the rest of her life!"

"Yes," agreed the blonde young woman at the lace, languidly. "I don't think much of Percy myself."

"Oh!" said the girl at the ribbons, somewhat blankly. "Then he didn't give it to you? I don't like to pry, but I must say I have my opinion of a girl who keeps her affairs from her best friends and never talks about her steady company. I've told you all about Oscar long ago, and you never saying a word! Any child would know that a fellow who gives a girl a diamond ring expects to marry her! I don't suppose I'll even be invited to the wedding! Not that I care—but I must say it's a shabby way to treat an old friend!"

"I don't want you to think I care in the least, Hattie Doggett, about your affairs! I don't want to know about your feensays, for he's not of the slightest consequence to me! I have plenty of interesting things happening to myself to take up my time. Only a girl can't be very proud of a man she's ashamed to talk about even if he can afford to give her diamond rings, which isn't saying they're in good taste when they're as big as a chunk of ice!"

"You make me laugh," said the blonde young woman, turning her hand so that the stone in question caught the rays of the arc light above. "It does sparkle, doesn't it? I'd just as soon tell you as not about the ring, Julia M'ree. My kid sister got it in a stocking full of candy and popcorn and truck at a party and maybe it cost 10 cents. I wore it just for fun."

"H'm!" suspiciously sniffed the girl who was pinning tags on ribbons. "Why didn't you say so before? I don't believe you at all, Hattie Doggett—and I bet you're ashamed of him!"

Dead Joke.

Orville Wright said in Dayton of his stabilizer:

"With my stabilizer an airman won't need to think about his balance any more than an automobilist thinks about his. This will not only make for comfort. It will make for safety. There will be no more aeroplane jokes as Goldie's."

"Old Gobsa Golde was informed by his wife that Scattergood, their son, wanted to take up flying."

"Oh," growled Gobsa from his desk, "send the boy in here to me with a sledgehammer. I'll break his arms and a leg and half a dozen ribs, and knock out an eye and a row of teeth. That'll be just the same thing as flying, and I'll save us about $10,000."

WILL UTILIZE COAL WASTE

Gigantic Central Power Plant Is Now Under Construction at Hauto, Pa.

What is believed to be the largest central power plant in any coal field in the United States is now being constructed by the Lehigh Navigation Electric company, at Hauto, Pa.

As is well known, the fine sizes of anthracite, such as buckwheat No. 3 and smaller, although containing a high heat content, possess but little present value at the mines. The fundamental idea in building this power plant at Hauto, says Coal Age, is to convert this low-priced and from the monetary standpoint, comparatively worthless fuel into commercially valuable electric current.

A considerable proportion of the fuel mined in the country today is used in the generation of electricity. Particularly during the past few years the idea has been gaining force that it is cheaper to manufacture power at the mine and transmit it to the point of application than it is to ship the coal over an equal distance and there convert it into electric energy in a small and isolated plant.

One of the unique features of the plant is the fact that the ashes from the furnaces can be discharged direct into air-dump ash cars of standard gauge and run into the building below the boiler room floor. The expense of ash disposal is thus greatly reduced.

Religious Change in India

Influence of the West is Being Strongly Felt Throughout the Country.

India's religious and social progress is undergoing important reshaping. Caste is loosening. Adherents of Hinduism are divided at present into three camps; the ceremonialists, or those who in orthodox faith adhere to the traditional rites of worship and sacrifice to the ancient gods; the reformists, who, holding to the main tenets of Hinduism, are breaking away from caste and idolatry, and the educated Hindus, whose views are being highly colored by influences from the West and whose religion, as far as any one can perceive, is often little more than a name.

Christianity is adding not less than 1,000,000 converts during the past year, but almost entirely from the lowest Hindu society, which has little influence upon the educated communities. The Indian tendency seems to be to retain the main principles and forms of Hinduism, but to revivify them with the more generous and altruistic spirit of Western religion. As one missionary teacher expressed it, the future religion of India will be Christian in spirit, but with Hinduism and the Indian sacred books as the Old Testament.—Christian Herald.

Jackson's Victory Over Indians.

One hundred years ago the desultory warfare which Gen. Andrew Jackson had waged against the Creek Indians for some months culminated in the battle of Oaksuska. The battle continued for three days, and was conducted with much ferocity on both sides. Two hundred of the Indians were slain, while of General Jackson's force 18 were killed and 70 wounded. The victory was particularly gratifying to General Jackson. During the winter his troops had been poorly provisioned and as a result much dissatisfaction began to manifest itself. Many of the soldiers had deserted and returned to their homes in Tennessee. Those who were left, half-starved, began to threaten mutiny, and it required General Jackson's greatest efforts to keep the insubordinates down. The battle of Oaksuska revived the spirits of the army and contributed in no small degree to the winning of the decisive battle that was soon to be fought at Horseshoe Bend.

Horse Is Still King.

"When it became a recognized fact that the automobile was a practical thing, the prediction was freely made that the horse would pass away, but we find today that there are more horses in the United States than ever before," remarked Alfred Watkins, an old sea captain of Norfolk, at the Raleigh.

"It is true, we rarely see horses on the streets of our big cities, but there are plenty of them. In the country, and the farmer thinks just as much of a good horse now as he did in the old days. So, too, I have observed that our men of wealth, who for a time took to the motor car, are coming back to the fast trotter and roadster. There is nothing like real life when it comes to sport, and an automobile is an inanimate thing."—Washington Post.

When the Shoe Pinched.

She was a British militant suffragist who, after an eight months' absence, turned up in a state of indignation against the British postoffice. The postmaster general, she complained, had been abstracting suffragettes' correspondence from the post! Some of them hadn't received their notices duly. "Abominable!" The complainant had just "done time" in prison for setting fire to letter boxes and destroying other people's correspondence!—Chicago News.

Why?

Apropos of an inefficient manager's resignation, George Gould said to a New York railroad reporter:

"It's every man's desire to wobble round in a big job rather than to fill a small one, and that's why so many resignations are by request."

PIANO IN BALLOON.

Indianapolis viewed a novel flight last fall, when a coal-gas balloon of 80,000 cubic feet capacity carried a player piano, a young society woman as performer, and a licensed aeronaut to a height of 3,000 feet, and landed seven miles from the starting point. The piano, platform, six bags of ballast and the two passengers weighed nearly 1,800 pounds. No difference in the tone of the piano was noted, except that when the highest point was reached the bass notes, when struck, vibrated until the whole bag shook.—Popular Mechanics.

FELL THROUGH.

"How about that scheme Dobbs originated? I believe he said he would let you in on the ground floor?"

"So he did, but the next move was toward the cellar."

THE EASIER WAY.

"Why doesn't somebody make another trip to the north pole?"

"What's the use?" asked the cautious traveler. "There are so many ways of joining the Ananias club nearer home!"

LOGICAL EFFECT.

"Did you see where they have found out that lead pencils carry germs?"

"Well, naturally, they are the very things to draw them."

"What is home where love it not?" asks a susceptible young poet. It's a mighty interesting place—for the neighbors.

FATAL TO SELF-ESTEEM.

APOSTLE OF COMMON PEOPLE

Charles Dickens the First Author to Give Insight into the Heroism of the Poor.

A recent number of the London Dickensian contains a sketch of Charles Dickens which presents him as "the apostle of the people." The people as represented in ordinary men and women, it says, had never been articulated until Dickens, who as the genius of the commonplace, became their mouthpiece. Until he came upon the scene to champion them, the common people had always been misrepresented even by Shakespeare, Fielding and Scott. Dickens understood the common people with an understanding that is only born of fellowship in suffering and of the charity that is love. He knew what poverty was, the article asserts, for he had felt its bitter bite and sting. "As a boy," says the Dickensian, "he must have given eager ear to countless stirring tales of the wars that had lately convulsed the whole western world; yet in spite of all this he manifested throughout his life a spirit of anti-militarism. He went out of his way to avoid description of a battlefield, just as he refrained from putting the heroism of sudden effort before the day-to-day, hand-to-mouth heroism of the poor."

ANGELINA'S NEIGHBOR

By ROSEMARY ENGER.

"I tell you," said Miss Angelina to her neighbor, Mrs. Purvis, as she "turned" the heel of the stocking who was knitting, "I've no respect for a man that can't turn his hand to do a woman's work when he has to. You can't tell me that it's belittling for a man to know how to spread a bed up sick, and wash dishes in water that's hot enough to get the grease off 'em. An' sure there's many a man would be dead and buried of starvation if he didn't know enough to fry potatoes and mix up a batch o' pancakes for himself."

"But, Angelina," put in soft-voiced Mrs. Purvis, "the poor soul we're talkin' about ain't ever had any call to do none o' those things. I understand his sister has always done it, 'till she died. It's hard on 'im, too, comin' to a strange place an' havin' to make new friends an' all that."

"Well I never!" Miss Angelina's knitting dropped into her lap. "You're awful set on sympathizin' with Mr. Leety, ain't you, Jane Purvis! Well, as I don't even care enough about him to keep the chickens and hogs, and incidentally myself late for supper by talkin' about him, I guess I'll be leavin'."

Mr. Leety lived next door to her. Their orchard fences were identical. His russets fell on her side in the fall, and her sheep's noses on his. She always threw his apples over, and watched them rot in disquiet. Never an apple spoiled on Miss Angelina's ground.

Then one day she woke up with a headache. It spread down her neck. Then her legs began to ache. She was also very tired. It got worse every day for a week. She had never had a doctor and held out as long as she could. One day, she managed to get a note into the letter box at the gate addressed to Mrs. Purvis.

In two weeks she came to herself again, in spite of the fact that the doctor said it was the worst case of typhoid fever he had ever known, and that she couldn't get well.

Mrs. Purvis and Sarah took turns nursing her and some way she pulled through. In six weeks she was able to be around a little, and in two months she was almost her old self. It was pretty late fall now, and the wind was getting sharp.

One day Miss Angelina opened the barn door. Some one was milking. "Stimmins' man," she supposed. Well, she wouldn't need him after today and she'd find out how much she owed him. She opened her mouth to ask when the man turned and she recognized her shiftless neighbor, Mr. Leety. Her lips straightened. "Why are you milking my cow?"

He got up. "Why, I guess because I didn't think you was able. I don't know any other reason."

"An' I suppose you have been supplying your own wants all the time I've been sick?"

"No'm, I ain't!" His eyes flashed. "Well, I'll do my own milkin' now. I'll send your money over when I figure it up. Good morning."

So Mr. Leety took his departure, and things at Miss Angelina's moved on in their accustomed schedule.

On Sunday she sent his money over to Mrs. Purvis. And on Monday Mrs. Purvis took the money, went to town and bought some things, which she sent out to Miss Angelina by parcel post, with a note.

"He won't take anything, so I went to town and bought some stuff for you to hem. He needs sheets and towels and tablecloths. He's a very kind man. No one else could come. If it hadn't been for him your live stock would have starved."

Miss Angelina was thunderstruck, indignant, puzzled, and repentant in the next 24 hours.

In three days the things were done and she took them over herself.

Mr. Leety opened the door when she knocked, and in spite of his surprise politely invited her in.

After he had dumped some things off a chair, he asked her to sit down. And then Miss Angelina humbly presented her offerings. He accepted them gratefully.

"It's pretty hard," he said ruefully, "gettin' along alone. The house work does get me. I never was no hand to cook, nor sew, nor keep things in order. I just can't take it somehow. It's more in my line to—"

"Yes," broke in his visitor quickly, "it's in your line to be kind-hearted and generous to people who've been hateful to you an'—an' I'm mighty sorry. You poor, poor man! To think of all the things I could have been doin' for you and didn't, an' all the things you needn't have done for me an' did. I'm ashamed."

"Oh, Miss Angelina, don't say that. But I've been awful homesick. If you'd just let me come over some evenings an' talk, it'd do me a world o' good. I get pretty lonesome."

"So do I, Mr. Leety. You're surely welcome, an' I've always got pie an' cookies."

So Mr. Leety is now wearing well-darned hosiery and eating three good meals a day in a well-ordered house, for Miss Angelina has changed her game.

WOMAN COULD NOT SIT UP

Now Does Her Own Work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her.

Ironton, Ohio.—"I am enjoying better health now than I have for twelve years. When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could not sit up. I had female troubles and was very nervous. I used the remedies a year and I can do my work and for the last eight months I have worked for other women, too. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for I know I never would have been as well if I had not taken it and I recommend it to suffering women."

Daughter Helped Also.

"I gave it to my daughter when she was thirteen years old. She was in school and was a nervous wreck, and could not sleep nights. Now she looks so healthy that even the doctor speaks of it. You can publish this letter if you like."—Mrs. RENA BOWMAN, 161 S. 10th Street, Ironton, Ohio.

Why will women continue to suffer day in and day out and drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

ENTERTAINMENT

At Opera House Drew a Good Crowd.

The Old Time Fiddlers' contest at Holland's Opera House Thursday night, held under the Auspices of the W. O. W., was a success in all respects. About twenty performers participated. Messrs. Heady and Wallace, the promoters, went to Clarksville yesterday, where they will probably put on a contest.

WOMAN COULD NOT SIT UP

Now Does Her Own Work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her.

Ironton, Ohio.—"I am enjoying better health now than I have for twelve years. When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could not sit up. I had female troubles and was very nervous. I used the remedies a year and I can do my work and for the last eight months I have worked for other women, too. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for I know I never would have been as well if I had not taken it and I recommend it to suffering women."

Daughter Helped Also.

"I gave it to my daughter when she was thirteen years old. She was in school and was a nervous wreck, and could not sleep nights. Now she looks so healthy that even the doctor speaks of it. You can publish this letter if you like."—Mrs. RENA BOWMAN, 161 S. 10th Street, Ironton, Ohio.

Why will women continue to suffer day in and day out and drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

PAINFULLY HURT.

Accident To Mrs. J. H. Dagg Calls For Display of Rare Nerve.

Mrs. J. H. Dagg was seriously injured Wednesday in a peculiar way. She was standing on a chair reaching upward for some purpose, at her home, when the chair tilted and threw her against the wall. In falling she threw her arm against the wall, upon which was hanging a sharp-pointed wire file-hook and this pierced her forearm below the elbow and tore its way through the flesh to her wrist several inches. The incision went to the bone and made a very ugly and painful wound. Surgical aid was rendered and Mrs. Dagg, with wonderful nerve and courage, permitted the physician to take sixteen stitches in her flesh without an anaesthetic. At last accounts she was doing well and her recovery is expected in due time.

Gracey's New Judge.

Chas. L. Wadlington, the popular I. C. agent, is to be the new Police Judge at Gracey. The town trustees and practically everybody else in Gracey endorsed the appointment, which is expected to be made by Gov. McCreary any day.

Portrait Painter Opens Studio.

Mr. J. A. Holder, who painted some portraits here last winter that attracted attention, notably that of the late Mrs. E. S. Stuart, has returned from Memphis and he and his wife will open a studio.

Mr. Dade Is Out.

Mr. J. Bankhead Dade, who has been quite ill for several months, has so far recovered his health as to be out again. He took a ride about the city Thursday for the first time.

TRIGG COUNTY MAN

In Employ of Government Drowned at Vicksburg, Miss.

Wm. T. Wharton, second son of the late George S. Wharton, of Cadiz, was drowned at Vicksburg, Miss., last week. He was employed as foreman on the U. S. fleet and fell into Lake Sentinel while not on duty. The body was brought to Cadiz for interment. He was 41 years old. The Cadiz Record says:

"He grew up here, attending the schools of Cadiz and Hopkinsville. No young man had more friends than Will Wharton, and his associates among the boys of his day were limited only to his acquaintances. After the death of his mother in October, 1893, his father having died several years before, he left Trigg county and went West. He spent a year in California and a year or two in other parts of the West. For seventeen years past he had been at work for the government on the Mississippi river, and for a number of years had been foreman of a large fleet, working a thousand men at times on the Mississippi river levees.

Meeting Postponed.

Large Closed Country.

Afghanistan, the buffer state between British India and the Russian possessions in Asia, with an area of about 250,000 square miles and a population of probably about 5,000,000 Mohammedans (no census has ever been taken), is, with the exception of Tibet, the largest closed country in the world.

MARTIN W. DAVIS

Former Hopkinsville Man Dies In Indiana and Body Brought Here.

The body of Martin W. Davis arrived here Thursday from Terre Haute, Ind., and was buried in Riverside cemetery. Mr. Davis died there the day before. He was formerly a photographer in this city and at one time was a member of the police force. He had many relatives and friends in this county and was a man who was well liked on account of his genial, jovial disposition. He leaves a widow and one son. The burial was with the honors of the Woodmen of the World.

Forest Notes.

Nearly 4,000 acres were reforested in Montana and northern Idaho during 1913, at an average cost of $7.50 an acre.

The best forested area of China is in Manchuria. The principal tree varieties are pine, cedar, larch, fir, yew, oak, ash, elm, walnut, and birch.

Two forest officers, in Washington and Oregon, are writing popular descriptions of the trees on the Crater and Mt. Rainier national parks, for the use of visitors to the parks.

Garnett Peak, Wyoming, nearly 14,000 feet in elevation, and the highest mountain in the state, is on the divide between the Bonneville and Bridger national forests.

In northern Arizona, Utah, Nevada, southern Idaho, and western Wyoming, the fires on national forests set by campers have decreased in four years from nearly a third to approximately one-fifth. Lightning fires have increased from one-fourth to nearly one-half. The relatively larger proportion from lightning, however, is due partly to decrease in other causes.

BUCKNER DEAD.

Colored Quarryman Succumbed To His Injuries Wednesday Night.

Robert Buckner, colored, the workman who was fatally injured Wednesday while blasting rock, died the same evening. The body was buried yesterday at Cave Spring cemetery with the funeral from the Main Street Baptist church, of which he was a member. Buckner sometimes preached himself, but had charge of no church.

A School For Brides.

A school for brides is proposed in Cincinnati, where each girl expecting to marry soon, will be given a course of six months in learning to cook and to do other domestic stunts. This is not a bad idea. The women themselves have drawn the line that men must be making good money before they should become husbands. At least it is required that a man shall be in good condition to support a wife before he marries and any girl is regarded as foolish who will marry a man who is not earning enough money to take care of her comfortably. This is right enough. Men who are not sufficiently provided with this world's goods or earning large enough wages to properly care for a wife ought not to take one. It takes time and great effort to prepare the man with this qualification for a husband. Why should not the girl be prepared to make the right kind of wife? It is just as necessary that she should know how to take care of a house and cook, if need be, as it is that the husband should provide the home and food. A sloven house and a poorly prepared meal is not giving the husband a proper return for what he has labored and bought, at ten times the sacrifice. There are more unhappy marriages because women are unprepared for wifehood than from men who do not earn enough to support their helpmates. Marriage is a partnership and each partner should keep up one end of the row.—Elizabeth News.

Macbeth strode down upon the witches. "What make you there?" quoth he. "Scrapple," replied she of Endor, and Macbeth strode off the while, the cold wind howled upon the laird's bonnie blue knees.

Mrs. Carr's Sister Dead.

Mrs. Cornelia McNichols, aged seventy-six and widow of J. S. McNichols, formerly of Trigg county, died in Paducah a week ago. She is survived by six children, one of them Mrs. M. Rascoe, of Roaring Springs. Three sisters also survive as follows: Mrs. Phenie Fletcher, who resides six miles west of Cadiz; Mrs. Cassie Carr, of Hopkinsville, and Mrs. Jack Cobb, of Blytheville, Ark.

Moves To Frozen North.

Mr. James A. Cook and family, of Princeton, left Wednesday for Calgary, Alberta, Canada, where they will make their future home. Mr. Cook visited that point some weeks ago, and while there took option on a section and a half of land.

Manager Ling of the Owensboro Distillers, is fast rounding his men into condition, according to the Owensboro Messenger. The first of the week he started the pitchers using fast ones and curves to the batters.

SPECIAL TO WOMEN

The most economical, cleansing and germicidal of all antiseptics is

Paxtine

A soluble Antiseptic Powder to be dissolved in water as needed.

As a medicinal antiseptic for douches in treating catarrh, inflammation or ulceration of nose, throat, and that caused by feminine ills it has no equal. For ten years the Lydie E. Pinkham Medicine Co. has recommended Paxtine in their private correspondence with women, which proves its superiority. Women who have been cured say it is "worth its weight in gold." Quartermaster general's disproportionableness characteristically contradistinguished unconstitutionality. Incomprehensibility."

QUAKER CITY BEHIND TIMES

Statistics Show That Shoes of Philadelphia Must Frequently Lack the Proper Polish.

Philadelphia doesn't keep its shoes well polished. Washington and Boston do very much better in this particular.

A merchant who knows whereof he calculates is authority for saying the Hub buys a great deal more shoe polish than does this city of independence, and Washington surpasses the home of the baked bean.

Even without these trade statistics it would be apparent to any observer that there are more busy bootblacks in Washington and Boston than can be seen in Philadelphia. The great number of long, thin boot-shine "parlors" in those towns have no substitute here.

But Europe beats all of our towns in keeping a perennial shine on its shoe. That, I imagine, is due to the prevalence of the custom in all hostilities of having a "boots." He shines while you slumber, and I'm ready to wager that you never were able to escape from any European inn, however small, without encountering the outstretched hand of "boots."—Philadelphia Ledger.

SURGICAL WORK MADE EASIER

Anesthetizing Machines Render Possible Operations Hitherto Scarcely Deemed Worth Thinking Of.

Machines for administering ether, chloroform or other anesthetics have been devised, which make the work of the surgeon easier and safer for the patient. An improved machine is being used in several eastern hospitals which is motor-driven and seems destined not only to simplify present methods of anesthetizing, but to open a field to surgery which heretofore has been almost beyond the reach of the knife. With the new machine it is possible to maintain normal lung pressure while the chest cavity is being explored, a problem solved as a mere by-product of mechanical anesthesia, while the patient is freed from distress as the effect of the drug wears away. Gas and air, and gas and oxygen may be given in any predetermined amount supplied by this machine. Eminent surgeons believe this method of anesthesia has a wide and varied field.—Popular Mechanics.

HOPELESS.

"Better take this patient out of the observation ward and place him with the incurables," said the great alienist.

"But his hallucinations were not out of the ordinary," said the head of the insane asylum. "He imagined he was Napoleon. Why do you regard his case as hopeless?"

"He told me that he was the president of Mexico," replied the great alienist.

SELF-APPRECIATION.

"King Lear is a great character," remarked the friend.

"Yes," answered the actor. "I suppose you remember my performance last season?"

"No, I confess I have never seen you in the part."

"Indeed!" was the rejoinder in a tone of gentle surprise. "Then how on earth did you know it was a great character?"—Liverpool Mercury.

QUITE TRUE.

Patience—To fold letters and insert them in envelopes I see is the purpose of a simple hand-operated machine patented by a Georgia man.

Patrice—But you never hear of any man patenting any device to remind 'em to mail 'em.

HABIT.

"Why has Jinks had the paths in his suburban place all such queer serpentine ones?"

"He had to have them that way to suit the walk he's learned in the city dodging autos and motorcycles."

INTERESTING FIGURES.

"I find the professor's statistics stupid."

"I don't. He told me there were 400,000,000,000 people in the world and that I was the prettiest girl in the lot."

HIS AFFLICTION.

"Does your husband suffer with anything like a somnolent tendency?"

"No, indeed, nothing so serious as that. He only gets sleepy all the time."

CRAZE FOR ELEPHANT SKIN

Leather Manufacturers Are Finding It a Hard Matter to Meet the Increasing Demand.

Elephant skin is very beautiful. Moreover, it is durable. But it is hard to get.

The price of a large elephant is not small, and, besides that, elephants do not grow within a stone's throw of our front doors. So the leather manufacturer that contracted to furnish many elephant-skin bags at a given time would probably find himself under a big burden. He must wait until some tame, pet elephant, so to speak, dies.

Elephants are unusual enough, so that many of them, after they die, are stuffed and put in museums. Hence a named elephant, one that has been popular during life, will seldom fall into the hands of leather dealers. It is for the poor and wandering denizens of the circus and traveling animal shows to end up on the counters of the fashionable leather goods shops.

Such is the fate of half a dozen elephants that were overtaken in the awful floods in Indiana last spring. They were purchased by one of the famous dealers in silver and leather goods and converted into many wonderful bags and other trinkets. Among these are small elephants covered with real elephant hide, with ivory tusks, standing on little ivory slabs.

DIRIGIBLE BALLOONS.

The dirigible balloon is by no means a modern invention as many people seem to think. As a matter of fact, as long ago as 1784 General Meunier proposed the construction of an elongated balloon which might be propelled through the air. Experiments were made with it by two brothers named Robert, who made several ascents and attained a speed of three miles an hour, though the method of propulsion was only aerial oars worked by hand. Nothing further was attempted until 1852, when Henri Giffard built dirigibles which, by means of a light steam engine, he propelled at nearly seven miles an hour, and since then various experiments have been made which ultimately ended in the wonderful triumph of Zeppelin.—New York Press.

PROFITS BY OTHERS' ERRORS
Man Makes Fairly Satisfactory Living by Pointing Out Mistakes in Printed Works.

A man has just been found who earns a living as a finder of mistakes. He is a Swiss with a knowledge of most European languages and a vast fund of literary and general information accumulated in his world wanderings. Just now is his busiest season. He is searching all the 1914 reference books for errors, which he tabulates on a foolscap sheet and sends it to the editor of the publication, leaving it entirely to him whether he is compensated for his trouble. Editorial generosity provides the merchant, with his general translation work, with a fairly satisfactory living throughout the year.

"I first began this job," he said, "by pointing out to the publishers of a popular reference book a great many inaccuracies—in this case they took a fortnight to collate—and then I followed on with corrections, especially in the etymological section of a new dictionary. In each case I received remuneration for my trouble, and now I work for practically all the publishers of reference books."

SNEEZING IN FOREIGN LANDS
Involuntary Disturbance No Longer an Offense in Germany—Some Old Superstitions.

Not quite ten years ago a citizen was fined in Prussia for sneezing loudly in a street at night. A few weeks ago a jury of Bunzlau refused to condemn a citizen who had been arrested by the police for sneezing and "disturbing public peace."

Mohammed said:
"If a man sneeze and say 'Allah-dolillah' he averts seventy diseases, of which the least is leprosy."

The Hindus believe sneezing and yawning are caused by evil spirits and they drive them away by snapping the thumb and forefinger as loudly as possible. But you should sneeze to the right, not to the left, and if you sneeze when putting on a shoe you should go to bed again.

When the king of Mesopotamia sneezed there were acclamations in all parts of his dominions.

TAKING UP ROYAL HONORS.
Large quantities of baggage have been forwarded to Durazzo in advance of the prince of Wied, who is to be king of Albania, and the program of the prince's movements is publicly indicated. Very different was it in 1866 when Prince Charles of Hohenzollern started for Bucharest, where he was to become king of Rumania. The king of Prussia knew nothing officially of it, but gave the prince six weeks' leave, which excused him from the order to rejoin his regiment for the coming war with Austria. He traveled alone with Counselor von Werner to Zurich, where they busied themselves with erasing the marking of the marking of the prince's linen, reducing his baggage to an absolute minimum, and disguising him as a speckled merchant—whose name, the prince, to his horror, could not remember when a customs official demanded it at Salzburg.

UNREFORMED.
"You didn't stay very long on the water wagon."
"Not very."
"I thought you said you would not drink a drop."
"Got my phraseology mixed. Meant that I wouldn't drop a drink."

DROPPING THE H.
"You Americans also drop your h's," said the visitor from London.
"Never observed it."
"Of course not. But since I was here a good many years ago some of you have dropped the h from 'Pittsburgh.'"

UNROMANTIC SUITOR.
"How do you expect to support my daughter on your salary?" asked the cautious father.
"I hadn't thought of that," replied the nervy youth. "I'm one of those people who believe a woman should be thoroughly independent."

THE REAL ONE.
"A wife gets a third of her husband's property, doesn't she?"
"No."
"Why, I thought the law gave that to a man's wife."
"No; only to his widow."

A French journal has been digging into the soul of the young girl, and asking her what she wants in a husband as to color, age and name. The vast majority of 50,000 reply that they want a dark man of twenty-seven, and his name should be the French equivalent of John. None of your Algerians or Erics for the cautious damsel. None of your Hippolytes or Pauls—mercurial or subversive persons. They want John when it comes to husbands.

FAIR BUT POWERFUL HAND

Spanish Queen May Be Said to Have Won Succession by the Exercise of the Latter.

H. R. II. the Infanta Eulalia of Spain, in her brilliant memoirs, which are now appearing in one of the magazines, tells a dramatic story of how the Salic law was abolished in Spain.

When her father, Ferdinand VII., was taken with his final illness, there was a Salic law in Spain by which his brother Carlos would be his heir and successor. "But an old enmity existed between Don Carlos and my mother's aunt, the Infanta Louisa Carlota. She had said to him, 'You'll never reign.' And he had laughed at her."

But when the king was plainly dying of paralysis she put before him a paper that she had prepared, abolishing the Salic law; and, placing a pen in his hand, she took hold of his fingers and began to sign his name to the decree.

The prime minister, Carlomarde, seeing what she was doing, put his hand over hers to stop her. She stopped long enough to strike him a blow on the head that dazed him. When he recovered himself the document had been signed and King Ferdinand was dead.

Calomarde bowed gallantly, and said to her in the words of a Spanish proverb, "A fair hand can do no wrong." She replied, "No; but it can strike, eh?"

Father's Idea of the Baby's Future More Than Likely to Have Been the Correct One.

The Smiths' baby was born on a Christmas morn, and it was the first babe of the Smiths, and it was exactly a year old on the Christmas day when a party was held to celebrate the time. His name was John, but he was generally called "Johnnie" for long, and there was never such an infant in the wide world.

"He is a thorough genius," exclaimed Mrs. Smith. "I'm sure of it."

"He will become an inventor," said Mr. Smith, "for he is so original."

"Maybe an actor," sighed Mrs. Smith, "for he is so beautiful."

"Or a musician," piped in Mr. Smith, "for his voice reminds me of Mendelssohn."

"Or a general in the army," guessed Mrs. Smith, "he is so active."

"Or a great politician," exclaimed Mr. Smith, with enthusiasm.

"But why a politician?" queried the wife in disappointed tones.

"Because, my dear," came the reply, "he seems to crawl out of everything so easily."

Word's Laxative Mineral Water.

Well Recently Bored 137 Feet Deep, Situated One Mile West of Hopkinsville.

ANALYSIS OF WATER.

By Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington, Ky:
One gallon contains 323.6 grains of solid matter (5.53 grams per liter) composed mainly of sodium chloride (common salt), sodium sulphate (Glauber's salt), with small amount of calcium sulphur, calcium carbonate, magnesium carbonate and sodium sulphide. Hydrogen sulphide free and combined is present to the extent of 5.0 grains per gallon. There are traces of sodium iodide and sodium bromide, iron, silica, potassium and lithium salts. There is a salt sulphur water and would doubtless have a laxative effect in addition to the other properties of a sulphur water.

The following testimonial is submitted, with signatures:
"I have used Word's Laxative Mineral Water and it has benefited me more than any water I have ever drank."

Much of the tobacco now coming in is of the cheaper grades for which there is not so much demand and prices are slightly lower. Finer grades are still quite firm and the market is steady.

Missionaries Leaving.

American missionaries in the interior of Mexico have been ordered to proceed with all possible speed to Vera Cruz. This order was contained in a cablegram sent by the board of foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal church in New York to Dr. J. W. Butler, the board's representative in Mexico City. A reply received from Dr. Butler stated that a large number of American missionaries were already en route to the coast.

BLUE AND GRAY

Meet at Crofton in Enjoyable Event.

Crofton, April 18.

Editor Kentuckian:

The Old Fiddlers' Contest at Crofton, the metropolis of north Christian, was surely a grand success. It was truly grand to see the battle scarred veterans of the Blue and Gray of '61-'65 meeting and mingling as brothers. It made us who saw and heard them, feel that, in the language of another, "The victories of peace are far greater than those of war." It filled our hearts to overflowing to see these old fellows draw the bow and thereby extract that sweet melody, and made our old hearts to rejoice that we were citizens of this glorious republic, where alone, upon this habitable globe, that such scenes were possible. And those of us who were fortunate enough to be present had our souls filled with gladness at the beautiful sight of Randle and Wicks and many others of the Blue and Gray meeting as brothers, and last, but not least, the genial face of the Kentuckian's representative, Brother Bartley.

CAPT. RILEY IS READY

Deposit For the Fall Fair.

Capt. J. W. Riley's fine saddle and harness horse "The Nominee," known all over this part of Kentucky, is making the season at his farm near Newstead. Also Greatland, one of the finest jacks Capt. Riley has ever owned.

The Nominee's first colts are two years old this spring and they show that he has no equal in this section as a breeder. Greatland won first in the jack ring at the Pennyroyal fair last fall, also won sweepstakes over all ages.

Capt. Riley has issued the following proposition:

Attention Stockmen.

It is a known fact that last year I asked the directors of the Pennyroyal Fair to give three Premiums for Stallion and six of his get, 1st premium $30.00, 2nd $20.00, 3rd $10.00, and so stated that I would show only for 1st Premium, believing all the time that some of the owners of the great Stallions they are boasting of so much would come before the public, and show what they had as breeders. I have learned their reason for not coming was because they only offered two premiums, one $15.00 and the other $10.00. Now in order to make it worth showing for this year, I for one will deposit with the Pennyroyal Fair Association $50.00 to be known at the ring for Stallion and his produce. Every one that enters to deposit same. This proposition is made to every breeder in Christian county and adjoining counties. The one that wins 1st gets the whole purse.

Civic League Will Ask For Date In May.

Hopkinsville is to have a general clean-up day or days, early in May. A proclamation will be issued by Mayor Yost and the work will be under the active supervision of the Civic League, of which Mrs. Yost is president. The probable date will be the latter part of the second week in May.

A Backward Glance.

The former war with Mexico was caused by the annexation of Texas to the United States July 4, 1845, nine years after Texas had achieved its independence. Almonte, the minister, at once demanded his passports, and Gen. Zachary Taylor was ordered from Louisiana to Texas. The real question was a boundary dispute, and Mexico demanded to be allowed to fix the boundary line. What had been the Mexican state of Coahuila, east of the Rio Grande, was the disputed territory and Gen. Taylor was sent to help Texas hold that territory. He had 5,500 men at the mouth of the Neches at the close of 1845. On Mar. 8, 1846, Taylor advanced to what is now Brownsville and erected Fort Brown and April 26 Gen. Arista reached Matamoros on the opposite side of the river.

The Mexicans opened hostilities by crossing the river and attacking a company of Americans, killing 16 and capturing the rest. Taylor, apparently retreating and 6,000 Mexicans crossed the river to Palo Alto. Taylor returned with 2,000 men May 8 and defeated the Mexicans, who lost 100 men. Four Americans were killed and 40 wounded. The Mexicans were driven back to Resaca de la Palma, where they made a stand, but were routed and driven across the river. War was declared May 11 and Gen. Scott was made commander-in-chief. Gen. Taylor in ten days captured Matamoros and in September advanced with 600 men on Monterey held by 10,000 men, which was captured Sept. 21. At this juncture Gen. Santa Anna became president of Mexico and took the field with 20,000 men. Gen. Worth moved South and captured Saltillo and Gen. Patterson took Victoria. Capt. Conner, of the navy, had captured Tampico when Gen. Scott arrived. Gen. Kearney in the meanwhile had conquered New Mexico and California, then Mexican territory, aided by Kit Carson. Kearney then marched South and captured Chihuahua by Nov. 28. Gen. Scott had left Taylor with only 4,800 men and Santa Anna attempted to crush him at Buena Vista, near Saltillo, Feb. 23, 1847. A great battle was fought and Kentucky and Mississippi troops saved the day. The Mexicans retreated, losing 2,000 of their 20,000 men. Taylor lost 746. Gen. Scott then marched against Mexico City with 12,000 men, starting from Vera Cruz April 8. He met Santa Anna with 15,000 men Apr. 18 at Cerro Gordo and defeated him. The Mexicans lost 1,000 and the Americans 431. The victorious Americans swept all before them and reached the capital August 7 with 11,000 men. The two fortresses, Churubusco and Chapultepec, occupied by 30,000 Mexicans, were stormed and the first taken Aug. 20 and the other Sept. 8. Santa Anna fled and the Americans occupied the city. After losses in battle and by disease and in garrisons along the route Gen. Scott had less than 6,000 men to hold the capital. Santa Anna treacherously attacked the 1,800 sick Americans in Puebla hospitals, but they held out several days until Gen. Lane fell upon the Mexicans on his way to reinforce Gen. Scott and drove them away. Santa Anna then sued for peace and the terms were agreed upon Feb. 2, 1848, and the present boundary line was fixed. The United States paid the impoverished country $15,000,000 for the vast territory taken.

Another change in the boundary line is about due.

Cayce-Quarles.

The wedding of Miss Katherine Rabold Quarles and Mr. Kenneth Odin Cayce was beautifully solemnized at the country home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Frank Minor Quarles, Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock, Rev. C. M. Thompson officiating. The entire house was decorated with Southern smilax and spring blossoms. At the end of the spacious hall was erected a beautiful altar of clinging vines, lilies and potted plants. Promptly at 4 o'clock the soft strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march was heard and Miss Elizabeth Cayce, sister of the groom, and Miss Cornelia Watts, of Clarksville, Tenn., dressed in white and pink, came out bearing the white ribbons forming an aisle to the altar. Little Frances Cary, of Clarksville, dressed in white with pink ribbons, carried the ring in the heart of a lily. Miss Eva Quarles, sister of the bride, prettily gowned in yellow crepe media trimmed in pearl and silk shadow lace, was maid of honor. She carried an arm bouquet of Killarney roses. The bride gowned in a white lingerie lavishly trimmed with lace and embroidered batiste flounces, came in alone, carrying a shower bouquet of Bride roses and valley lilies. This charming costume was made complete by the princess lace cap and long flimsy veil caught with real valley lilies. The groom wore the conventional black. At the altar the bride was met by the groom and Dr. Thompson, who in a short and impressive ceremony united them in the holy bonds of wedlock. During the ceremony Mrs. R. J. Garrott, who presided at the piano, played a love song from Nevin's scenes in Venice. After the ceremony the young people were asked into the dining room where amid much merriment the large wedding cake, decorated with sweet peas and orange blossoms, was cut. The young couple were the recipients of many lovely gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Cayce left on the 5:32 train for a short wedding trip, after which they will board with the groom's parents on South Main until their new home in Hopper Court is finished. The out-of-town guests were, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Cary, Misses Elizabeth, Ann and Frances Cary, Miss Cornelia Watts, Miss Amarydis Peay and Austin Peay, Jr., of Clarksville, Mesdames R. J. Garrott, J. W. Carter, of Pembroke, and Miss Ida Fuqua, of Russellville, Miss Nora Powell, of Nashville, and Prof. H. Clay Smith, of Louisville. GUEST.
